Some Important Information about Your Local Area Network (LAN) and Firewalls.

If you plan to use DHL Connect via your company's local area network connection to the Internet, you may encounter problems communicating through the firewall your company has set up to protect its computers from unauthorised access.

DHL Connect communicates through standard ports in your company's firewall. If you are not currently using the Internet, the standard ports in your company's firewall may be closed, and you will not be able to register, ship or receive updates for DHL Connect.
